

Step 1 Prepare a Complete Household Budget

Getting control of your personal finances is important to survive unemployment. Use a household budget worksheet to see where you spend your money and where you can save. Do this as a family project.

Your budgeted expenses should include:

- Fixed expenses (mortgage, rent, taxes, insurance, loans, installment payments, credit card payments, child support and other fixed monthly payments)
- Variable monthly expenses (food, gas, repairs, dues, prescriptions, recreation, utilities and child care)
- Future expenses (income/property tax and other outstanding debts)

Your budgeted income should include:

- Income
- Savings
- Severance pay
- Union Strike Assistance
- Unemployment Compensation
- Accrued vacation pay
- Refund from pension funds

Step 2 List Assets

Other assets may include:

- Cash value of insurance policies
- Prepaid burial or funeral policies
- Equity in your home (the difference between the value of your home and the amount you owe on your home)
- Resale value of vehicles, boat, RV, etc.

Step 3 Set Priorities for Your Expenses

List payments in order of importance. This will help you pay first things first when money is short.

The most important expenses to pay will be your mortgage or rent payment, followed by utilities, health insurance and car payments. Child support or alimony (if any) is also a high priority.

Step 4 Make a Complete List of Creditors

List the following information for each creditor:

- Name, address and phone numbers of the contact person
- Account number
- Total amount owed
- Payment schedule and amount
- Interest rates

Step 5 Notify Your Creditors Before You Get Behind

Determine how much you can pay regularly on each bill. If you need to negotiate a lower monthly payment than your creditors expect, notify them before you get behind.

Creditors are usually easier to work with when you let them know about your situation before a severe problem arises.

Contact creditors in writing:

- Tell them you need to work out a plan for delaying, reducing or refinancing payments until you return to work
- Always include your account number, phone number and address in all correspondence
- Keep copies of your letters and follow up by phone

Step 6 Pay What You Can

Even if you can't pay the amount creditors want, pay something regularly.

This keeps your overdue balance as low as possible and lets creditors know you are making a good faith effort. Partial payments may keep your account from being turned over to a collection agency.

Step 7 Stay in Touch with Creditors

After your first letter, keep in regular contact with your creditors. This reassures them, shows a responsible attitude and may keep them from harassing you.

- Consider other shopping options—food co-operatives, farmers’ markets or going to a farm and picking your own

To cut your telephone bills:

- Switch to a money-saving rate plan
- Eliminate unnecessary calls (measured service charges for calls by length and time of day)
- Make fewer long-distance calls (take advantage of lower evening and weekend rates)
- Cancel electronic phone features like “call waiting”
- Discontinue cell phones, e-mail services and pagers

To cut your energy and fuel costs:

- Turn off lights, TV and appliances when not in use
- Cut back on the use of “power hogs” like hair dryers
- Lower the thermostat on your hot water heater and furnace, or turn up your air conditioner, and dress accordingly

Step 8 Stop Credit Purchases

Stop using all your credit cards. Interest on most credit purchases is extremely high. If you have advance warning that you’ll be out of work, try to make larger payments to reduce the balance you owe.

Step 9 Reduce Household Expenses

With your family, plan reductions in household expenses to stay within your budget.

To cut your food costs:

- Plan less expensive meal menus—use leftovers and prepare snacks from scratch
- Adjust your buying habits—only shop when you need to, make a list and compare prices and brands
- Use coupons

- Wash and dry only full loads of clothes or dishes
- Eliminate unnecessary car trips
- Consult your local Consumer Credit Counseling Service

Step 10 Sell What You Don’t Need

Consider selling that extra vehicle or the boat and trailer you rarely use.

Look at your possessions to see which items could be sold or traded without really changing the way you live.

Talk to your landlord about doing minor repairs, cutting the lawn or doing other yard maintenance in place of rent.

Step 11 Check into Other Financial Resources

- Life Insurance—Review your policy or talk to your insurance agent to see whether you can borrow against your policy
- Pension Funds—Talk to your union representative or employer to see whether you are owed a refund on your pension fund contribution or from other company funds
- You may be able to borrow against your 401(k) or Tax Deferred Account (TDA)

transportation, uniform, tools)

■ When filling out a job application:

- ❖ Look over the entire form carefully, then follow all directions exactly
- ❖ Complete the application in black or blue ink

You found the job you had. You can find another job. Sometimes changing jobs can be a good thing. You may always have wanted to get into a line of work that pays better than your old job.

Step 1 Take Stock of Yourself

- List the job skills you've developed
- List skills you may have developed off the job
- Write out your employment history, listing all your previous jobs. It will help to remind you of the skills you can offer and in filling out job applications
- Identify the working conditions you prefer
- Determine the pay and benefits you need (though changing jobs may require a cut in pay initially):
 - ❖ The lowest pay and benefits level you will accept
 - ❖ The chances for future wage increases and/or promotions as you stay on the job
 - ❖ The costs to you of accepting the job (daycare,

Step 2 Find Out Who's Hiring

- Check newspaper ads, your local job service office and employment agencies for job openings
- Tell everyone you know that you are looking for work and ask for job leads
- Follow up on all job leads

Step 3 Prepare for the Interview

- Find out as much as you can about the employer and the job opening before you apply or are interviewed
- Check your appearance:
 - ❖ Be well groomed
 - ❖ Dress appropriately
- Take to the interview:
 - ❖ A summary sheet of your work experience, skills and education
 - ❖ Your Social Security card and driver's license
 - ❖ Citizenship documents
 - ❖ Reference list
- Consider how you might answer typical interview questions:
 - ❖ Why are you interested in working for us?
 - ❖ What is your experience?
 - ❖ What makes you think you can fill the requirements of this job?

- ❖ Neatly print answers to all questions. If a question does not apply, write in "N/A" (not applicable) or a dash
- ❖ Make certain that all the information you provide on the application is correct. Take your employment history to help you remember names, addresses, phone numbers, and dates
- ❖ After completing the application, double check to see that everything is correct
- During your interview:
 - ❖ Sit up, look alert and show that you are interested in the job
 - ❖ When answering questions, be honest, to the point and confident
- Send a thank you letter to the interviewer after the interview

Your union representative can let you know what union, company or public benefits you may be eligible for, and advise you on how to keep your health insurance after you are laid off.

The World Did Not End

We take pride in our skills. Our work provides for our families. Our jobs are a vital part of how we feel about ourselves.

That's why losing your job is traumatic — whether it means temporarily losing the entire family income or a part of it. Unemployment is difficult and will change the way you live. But it's not the end of the world.

By knowing where to turn and taking control of your situation, you can survive unemployment and reduce the impact of temporary joblessness on your family.

Talk to Your Family

Unemployment is tough on the whole family. Your spouse and children feel helpless. Talk out your problems and plan together. Explain your unemployment situation to them and include them in developing your plans to deal with it.

It helps to give each member of the family some positive steps they can take to help. By sharing the burden and pulling together, members of a family grow closer together and draw strength from one another. A professional family counselor may be helpful.

Turn to Your Union for Help

Your union can help you when times are hard.

Get the Help You Need... You've Earned It

While you were working, you helped to pay for public programs through your taxes, and for voluntary agency services through contributions to your local United Way or other community organizations.

So make your money work for you when you need it. We all need a little help at some time in our lives. Even companies get subsidies and tax breaks from the government during hard times. Don't be embarrassed to ask for the help you need. You paid for it. You earned it.
