Chances are that someone close to you has already been helped—or soon will be—by the United Labor Agency. Over the years ULA has been there to help workers, unionized or not, in their time of need.

Our mission is to assist union members and all workers in handling problems and difficulties arising on and off-the-job. This involves mobilizing and using the support of existing public agencies, as well as the resources of the labor movement.

Helping Working Families In Crisis!

The United Labor Agency (ULA), founded by the Connecticut AFL-CIO and Incorporated in 1978, is a non-profit 501 (c) (3) human service organization.

Contributions to the United Labor Agency are Tax Deductible.

ULA provides free assistance in the following areas:

- Job Search Workshops
- Resume Writing/Cover Letters
- Career Counseling to help individuals realize optimum career choices
- Basic Computer Training including Internet Basics and Microsoft Office
- Vocational Rehabilitation to support recovery from substance use
- Stress Management Workshops
- Veterans' Assistance
- Referrals to relevant human service agencies to maintain basic needs
- Advocacy for government resources including Unemployment Compensation, Workers Compensation, Social Security, Food Stamps, Public Assistance, Family Counseling and Disability Benefits
- Emergency food distribution through our Hartford Office Food Pantry
- Rapid Response/Early Intervention to provide information to displaced workers regarding available services

Special Programs

ULA also develops and operates various specialized programs to help individuals and groups. These may be contracted on a fee-for-service basis. Please call 860-258-6640 x226 for more information.
